INJECTION MOLDING Training Course

Experience Level: Fundamental-Intermediate
Paolo N.Canovi
during K-Show (24-31 Oct. 2007)
2 days: SPE member: €650 advance/€750 onsite
1 day: SPE member: €390 advance/€490 onsite

25-26 October 2007 – 10.00h-18.00h
Congress Centre South (CCD)–Room 17
Düsseldorf, Germany – SPE stand 11E21
Nonmember: €770 advance/€870 onsite
Nonmember: €462 advance/€562 onsite

Programme

Day 1 – 25 October

- Main differences between molding amorphous and molding crystalline materials
- Finding the switchover point
- Important molding conditions (e.g. melt quality and mold temperature)
- Injection unit and screw design materials
- Injection speed and pressure profiles
- Pressure time

Day 2 – 26 October

- Tooling
- How to start new molds
- Latest information on new technologies (e.g. gas and water assist)
- Co-injection
- Sequential and sequential-gas molding
- Gas counter pressure
- Troubleshooting

Who Should Attend?

This workshop is designed for all technical professionals. It will offer solutions to the most common productivity problems in injection molding. The information to be presented will be useful to tool designers, processing and quality control personnel, and prospective buyers.

About the Instructor:

In a career spanning nearly a half century, Paolo N. Canovi has gained broad recognition as an expert in injection molding of engineering thermoplastics. He worked for DuPont (1963–89), and in 1989 he formed the Processing New-technologies Consulting (P.N.C.) to serve the worldwide injection-molding industry. A frequently published author who is fluent in four languages, Mr. Canovi holds a Diploma in Mechanical Engineering from the School of Industrial Studies, Reggio Emilia, Italy. Since 2002, he has been a University Lecturer for Plastics Laboratory and Tooling at Politecnico of Torino.
